The event of the season: Spinsters' Convention at Fisher's opera house this evening.

Susan B. Anthony will not address the Spinsters' Convention tonight. There will be plenty of wit and wisdom without her.

With the closing of Olsen's bowling alleys the old A. F. C. alleys are the only ones now remaining open to the public. Some time ago an attempt was made to engage the latter alleys for the exclusive use of private parties but this plan failed.

The steam launch Edith, which is having new boilers placed in at the Astoria Iron Works, will be ready for service by the first of next week. She will act as a tender to the Megier cannery at Brookfield. In addition to her boiler, a new 7-foot cast iron wheel will be supplied.

The street approach to the O. R. & N. dock has been completed and the handling of freight will henceforth be greatly facilitated. Mr. Lounsbury, the local representative of the company, states that over 100,000 feet of lumber have been used in the construction of the entrance way. The increased business of the company can now be much more easily handled.

C. B. Clement, state organizer of the Foresters of America, is in the city in the interest of Court Astoria, No. 8. He will remain in the city about two weeks, booming the order. On Tuesday evening, May 8th, the grand court officers and a team from the several Portland courts will visit Court Astoria and will assist in the initiatory exercises. The local court will give a banquet in honor of the visitors.

Colonel Hughes has returned from his hunting trip. He explains, with a wicked smile, that he has been out to get in training for "his friends, the enemy" in the coming political campaign. Colonel Hughes declares that the fact that he failed to kill any bears or mountain lions cannot be distorted to infer that he will meet with similar luck with his distinguished but misguided opponents.

The Cornelia Cook, formerly the Jesse Borthwick, is tied up at the O. R. & N. dock awaiting favorable weather conditions to enable her to pass out on her trip to J. W. Cook's Port Townsend cannery. Captain Carr will be in charge of the steamer from this port. The Cornelia Cook is a trim little craft, her owners contending that she can not be beaten on the coast for speed, capacity and power taken into consideration. Captain Carr was formerly in the lighthouse service, subsequently serving as first officer on the George W. Elder.

PREPARING FOR NOME TRADE.

Elder, Nome City and Dispatch Soon to Leave This Port.

The steamship George W. Elder which arrived in from San Francisco on Monday, is now undergoing a thorough overhauling preparatory to her entering the Cape Nome trade next month. Besides the renovation to her machinery she will be equipped so as to carry four hundred passengers in addition to an immense amount of freight. Her sailing date has been set for May 15, and the management state that she will leave promptly at the time mentioned.

The new steam schooner Nome City is also slated to leave on the 15th of next month. Besides her great freight capacity, she will carry 350 passengers. The Dispatch, which has been engaged to enter the Cape Nome trade by the O. R. & N. Company, will leave this port on or about the 1st of June. It is stated that she will carry at least 500 passengers and as much freight as is offered up to the limit of her capacity.

The passenger accommodations on all three boats will be taken up many days before the sailing dates of the respective vessels. Already there are indications that as much freight as can be carried will be offered and it is a foregone conclusion that the O. R. & N. Company will be obliged to increase its facilities if it intends to meet the demands of the early-summer rush to the new Eldorado on the Cape.

A large number of Astorians have engaged passage on the vessels already scheduled to leave and these, together with those who prefer to take chances on an earlier passage from Seattle, will comprise quite an exodus by the time the season has fairly opened.

STARTLING FACTS FOR CONSIDERATION

A Condition, Not a Theory, Confronting Clatsop County.

COMING ELECTION POINTERS

Reasons Why the City and County Vote Will Be Surprisingly Small—The Duty of All Good Citizens.

If the republicans of Clatsop county expect to elect their legislative and county ticket this year it is time they were at work strengthening the party lines. The republicans of Clatsop county have to meet conditions this year that have never existed before and these conditions work against the party and in favor of the opposition. It is a wise man who gives his opponents the benefit of every doubt in entering a contest, planning to meet and overcome the advantages thus conceded. If they do not happen to exist then he has a reserve strength for use when and where most needed.

The first difficulty the republicans must face is in the falling off of the vote in this county. Every indication points to the fact that the registration in this county will be fully 300 votes short of the total vote cast at the last election. The republican party being in the majority, it naturally follows that the greater part of the loss of the legitimate vote will fall upon it. For instance, it is a well-known fact that 105 registered voters from this county have gone to Alaska and of that number no less than 80 were republicans. Again, the fishermen from abroad, booked as voters here in former years, are not here this year, and probably will not be here, and, as is well known, the republicans always commanded a fair proportion of this vote. These are but straws, but they show the direction of the wind.

It will be the business of the republican leaders to make good this loss to the party's legitimate voting strength and here is where the hard work will have to be done. It is of no use to shirk responsibilities or to attempt to gloss over matters. The republican party in Clatsop county can win in June if every republican does his duty and every true republican should be told and made to realize the necessity of his doing his duty and his whole duty to the party to which he belongs.

No dependence should be placed on this being a presidential year. The national campaign will not have started until long after the June election and none of the parties need hope for any accession of strength from the enthusiasm which will later mark the fall elections. The June election is a little fight all by itself in Clatsop county and will be influenced only by local conditions and local considerations. The populists have no ticket in the field this year and the majority of that party's adherents will feel themselves free to vote for whom they please in the county election. The republican ticket should appeal to them as the best ticket for the county's interests but it must not be forgotten that the populists have been acting with the democrats, thinly disguised this year as "citizens," and they will naturally lean toward their old allies, unless it is shown to them, as it can be, that in so doing they are injuring themselves at home without aiding their cause abroad.

The legislative and county fight in Clatsop county is plainly and purely between the republicans and democrats. The so-called "citizens" ticket was too openly made to fool anybody. The democrats have simply tried to borrow strength by borrowing the name of "citizens ticket." The endorsement and nomination of the two republicans on the ticket was made merely to throw dust in the eyes of those voters who, unattached to any political party, prefer to vote an independent ticket if they believe it to be genuine. The "citizens" ticket was made by democrats, who disbanded their convention to make it and did not even reconvene to endorse the so-called citizens' nominations, less than ten democrats being present when the so-called endorsement was made.

The independent candidates will count for but little. Nearly all of them, so far, are men who have been kicked out of every recognized party and are beggars on the political highway for any crumbs that may fall from either of any of the party tables. The average voter has no confidence in the independent candidate. He knows that in nine cases out of ten he has made every endeavor to get on a party ticket and very justly argues that if his party considered him unworthy of a nomination, the independent candidate is not worthy of his vote. How much more is this true in the case of an independent candidate who has been kicked out by all the parties, having been everything and nothing for the sake of a political job? So, in planning their work, the republicans need not greatly fear the independents. They will get the votes of a few personal friends but will not count for much for or against any of the regular candidates for the office they seek.

While uttering a word of warning on the situation, politically, two things may be said to the republicans. The first is that delays are dangerous and the sooner an active and aggressive campaign is commenced, the better will it be for the success of the ticket. Secondly, candidates working together, each for himself and all the others, will do more good work, each for himself, than if they start out to make their own fight regardless of the rest of the ticket.

Thirdly (and this caution deserves a paragraph by itself) the people will no longer stand "ring rule" or "ring leaders." Deny, if you please, that there are political rings in Clatsop county, you cannot convince all the voters of that fact. This is especially true of the out-of-town voters. They believe the rings exist and they think they know the leaders, and they are ready to down any candidate on any ticket believed to be supported by the men the opposition sees fit to designate as the ring leaders.

And there is the danger. The cry of a "republican ring" in Clatsop county is being used, naturally, by the opponents of the republican party, but the cry is heard within the party ranks and it behooves the nominees on the republican ticket to convince the doubtful of their own party, which they can do easily enough, that they are not the creatures of any ring, nor will they be tools of any ring if elected.

The tendency to avoid discussing charges of a ring, etc., leaving it to the opposition to charge and the republicans to content themselves with a simple denial, has been a mistake in the past that should be avoided in the future. Everybody knows of the charges. Then why should not the candidates meet them boldly and disprove them? For that matter, they should not even wait to be charged with being connected with an imaginary "ring," but make it clear that they come to the voters with clean hands and on their own merits.

The republicans of Clatsop county are not going to have a "walk over" for their legislative and county ticket this year.

Neither are they in danger of defeat, with proper work on the part of the candidates and party leaders. The ticket will be elected without trouble if the proper effort is put forth, but that certain conditions exist this year that have not existed heretofore, that these conditions tend to count against republican success in this county, is a matter of fact which, while in no way precluding defeat, calls for serious consideration in order that the obstacles may be met and overcome. There is no use shutting the eyes to plain facts. The greater the obstacle, the greater the effort needed—that is all.

Nothing must be taken for granted by the republican candidates this year. If the men on the ticket work together to the end, they will surely win, but it is no year for individual campaigns or shirking any of the hard work the opposition is sure to cut out for all of the republican nominees.

Skin-Tortured Babies

And Worn-out Worried Mothers Find Comfort in CUTICURA.

SOME MONTHS AGO OUR BABY'S HEAD GOT BORE. We took him to the doctor, who pronounced it poison and gave us some medicine which did no good. His head got so bad he would cry all night, and my wife could sleep none, and began to look ghastly. His head got so sore that we put a night cap on him, and folded a white cloth four thicknesses inside of it, and just through the night a kind of matter would ooze out from his head, soaked through the cloth and cap and on to the pillow. The top and back of his head was almost a solid sore, and looked so badly that words would not describe it. Almost in despair I told my wife I had been CUTICURA BROTHERS advertised and recommended very highly and I was going to try them. I bought the CUTICURA BROTHERS, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA Ointment. We gave him half of the Balm, used part of the cake of Soap, and before we had used the second box of CUTICURA Ointment he commenced to get better, and is now as well and hearty as anybody's boy. He is as merry as a lark, sleeps soundly all night, and his hair looks glossy, thick, and soft. While my wife looks like a different woman, I look at him and think I owe it to you and to suffering mankind to write and tell you of this almost wonderful cure.

DANGER OF OCEAN WRECKS.

It is stated that the Atlantic ocean contains many wrecked vessels which drift hither and thither, and as their positions change with the winds and tides, they are a constant menace to ocean traffic. Because of the great expense they are not destroyed until they have inflicted actual damage. How like this is the action of many persons, who wait until they are ill before treating such dangerous symptoms as indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, liver or kidney troubles. Don't allow them to menace your health. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will clear the system of all impurities, making the blood rich and the nerves strong. It cures all stomach disorders, and is an unequalled spring medicine. See that private revenue stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

 TO PARIS IN 1900.

The passenger department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway has taken advantage of the current interest in the Paris Exposition and has printed for free distribution one of the most charming books of the season, entitled, "Glimpses Across the Sea." Its contents describe a recent voyage across the Atlantic made by Sam T. Clover, journalist and author, and includes his diversified experiences in London and Paris. The "Glimpses" are entertaining and instructive to the prospective western patrons of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, who may be contemplating a trip to Europe. The enterprise of the railway company in anguishing such a happy departure from the ordinary methods of advertising is commendable.
